

Blueprint Project

There are many ways to improve my community. That is because my community is a real mess. We have graffiti everywhere! We also have a lot of old and abandoned houses. There are too many stray animals.

My first idea to improve my community is a graffiti clean-up program. There could be a local volunteer team that could go around to major graffiti spots and clean them up. For example, they could go to the bridges, and they could also go to sides of stores and other buildings and remove the graffiti. That would help our community look better.

My second idea is to get rid of all the abandoned houses. It might be a lot of work but I think that the city workers can accomplish it. There is so much we could do with all that free space. We could plant some trees, plants, and flowers. Some of the abandoned houses can be restored. Most of them have been empty too long and have started to deteriorate. We can make this negative into a positive if we really wanted to do it.

In order to solve the stray animal problem my final idea is that we have more abandoned and homeless pet shelters. I feel so sorry for them. Imagine walking to your bus stop and seeing three baby kittens drinking dirty rain water off the ground. This is more than my heart can bear. My family and I have done all we can by taking in two stray dogs and one kitten. It is up to our community to help these animals. This is why we need more local animal shelters.

In all, our community needs a lot of work. We can accomplish these goals though. The graffiti clean-up program can definitely be accomplished. The abandoned house issue is associated with the abandoned pet shelter project. If we had more empty land space we could build more animal shelters. In conclusion, we can and should all do something to help. Everyone can pick the project that suits them the best. The most important thing is to make an effort to help improve your community.
